

Make a toad hole

Fancy living somewhere that's dark, damp and cool? Maybe you don't, but it's just what a sleepy toad wants. Make your very own toad abode.

- 1 Find a spot that's cool, shady and out of the way. Under a bush is especially good, somewhere where other people won't find it.

You will need

- An old clay flower pot about 20 cm across at the top
- Trowel
- Leaves, moss and mulch

- 4 Half-fill the pot with leaves, moss and mulch and scatter more around the pot. Now wait for a toad to make your pot its daytime home.

- 2 Dig a hole about 10 cm deep and as long as your pot. If you can, dig it facing north to south.

- 3 Tip the pot in the hole on its side so that it's half buried. The mouth of the pot should face south (out of most strong winds and rain).
